JOHN HAMMOND ACCUSES SWEETHEART OF SHOOTING HIM EARLY THIS MORNING

Miss Ada Davis of Monroe Street, Locked Up Pending Result of Man's Injury.

Prisoner Insisted That Bartender Had Shot Himself When He Came Home Drunk—Couple Had Quarreled—One Year Ago Hammond's Wife Committed Suicide in Zanesville on Account of Jealousy

At 3 o'clock this afternoon John Hammond, the bartender, who was shot this morning, was suffering intensely at the Sanitarium. His condition is very grave. Miss Ada Davis, 23, who is accused of the shooting, is in the city prison, and anxiously inquired about Hammond's condition this afternoon.

for Hammond to have shot himself without burning the material of the trousers and that the shot was fired from a distance of several feet.

WOMAN ACCUSED

Wounded Man, Writhing in Agony, Says Ada Davis Shot Him Early Friday Morning.

John Hammond, a bartender, aged about 40 years, is lying at the East Main Street Sanitarium with a bullet wound which will probably prove fatal, and the manner in which it was received is veiled in mystery.

The question is whether Hammond shot himself with suicidal intent, by accident or whether the wound was not inflicted upon him by another.

Friday afternoon Hammond accused Ada Davis, 23, of shooting him, but the woman denies the charge.

The wounded man was taken in Bowers & Criss Bros. ambulance to the Sanitarium about 7:30 this morning and Drs. D. M. Smith and E. C. Yowell operated upon him. The shooting occurred between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning.

The physicians put Hammond on the operating table and found that a 32-calibre bullet had entered the abdomen on the left side several inches above the groin. The doctors probed for the bullet but it could not be located. Technically described the ball entered half way between the medial line and the left crest of the ilium, took a downward course six inches, passing under the poupart's ligaments close to the bladder, then dropping into the pelvic cavity. It is considered a very dangerous and probably fatal wound.

The shooting occurred at the home of Miss Ada Davis, 20 Monroe street, in East Newark, where Hammond made his home. The Davis woman and the wounded man have been recognized as lovers, and the circumstances were such that Chief of Police Sheridan thought there were sufficient grounds to hold her, pending an investigation. She had come to the Sanitarium after Hammond was taken there, and sat in the reception room during the operation. Before it was concluded Chief Sheridan took her to the city prison.

She was asked by an Advocate reporter concerning her knowledge of the shooting. She at first refused to talk, saying that Hammond had asked her not to do so. She was plied with questions and finally told the following story:

"Hammond had been drinking hard for several days and had not been home since Tuesday. About 2 o'clock he came home and accused me of having been to Idlewild Park with another man. The charge was false, as I had gone to bed at 7 o'clock, and was awakened when Hammond came to the door. A quarrel ensued and I left the room, going out the front door. I was hardly outside when I heard a shot, and returning into the house found Hammond standing on the floor. He said that he had been shot, and asked me to send for a doctor. I went to the B. and O. yard office and asked that a doctor be summoned. I then went to Dr. Yowell's office and he went to the house with me. Soon after Dr. D. M. Smith arrived, having been telephoned for from the yard office.

"At about 7 o'clock this morning it was decided to remove Hammond to a hospital. I know nothing further about the shooting but suppose he shot himself.

"He and I were lovers but had frequent quarrels. The pistol was lying on a table in the room. It had been left at the house by a boarder who left there some time ago."

The trousers worn by Hammond was brought to the Sanitarium. It could be plainly seen where the bullet had penetrated, but the fire, which the hole does not appear to be from, the police are inclined to the theory that it would have been impossible

JAPANESE

Are Displeased by Terms of Peace Agreement

LITTLE REJOICING IN JAPAN

PUBLIC HAD EXPECTED A RUPTURE AT PORTSMOUTH

Press Claims Fruits of Arms are Lost By Weak Diplomacy—Scant Dishonorable Terms.

Tokyo, Sept. 1.—A remarkable absence of rejoicing is one of the most striking features attendant upon the receipt of the news of a practical conclusion of peace has been reached. The kind of reception that awaits definite news will depend entirely upon the nature of the terms. It is generally feared that extensive concessions have been made by Japan. It has been generally expected by the public that there would be a rupture at Portsmouth in view of what was termed Russia's obduracy in refusing the payment of indemnity.

The Jiji says: "An agreement arrived at without a rupture can only mean that great concessions have been made by our plenipotentiaries. A peace concluded upon such terms can never satisfy the nation."

The Mainichi says: "We are disappointed. We only hoped that there would be a suspension of the peace conference. It is impossible under the circumstances to conclude an honorable peace. The fruits of our arms have been lost by weak diplomacy. Japan victorious in the field has been defeated in the conference chamber."

The Nichinichi says: "We feel surprised, and wonder that peace could have been concluded when everything indicated the impossibility of making Russia accept the vital demands of our terms. In the absence of official confirmation of the terms it is impossible to form a final opinion, but the indications are that nothing will insure peace with terms that are not honorable."

The papers are generally angry and say that peace obtained upon the terms reported is a humiliating one.

TEN KILLED

Many Injured in Wreck on Great Eastern Rail- way Today.

London, Sept. 1.—The Cromer express on the Great Eastern railway was wrecked at Chelmsford this morning. Ten persons were killed and many were injured. The train suddenly left the rails while approaching the station and dashed into the station. The wreckage caught fire and several passengers were burned.

RUSSIAN ARMY JOYFUL.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 1.—Dispatches from the army in Manchuria say that the news that peace had been agreed to was received by the troops with great enthusiasm. The officers do not join in the feeling of enjoyment. They express displeasure and declare the army was prepared to win a series of brilliant victories.

WHY MAIL WAS DELAYED.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Commander Borakoff, Russian naval attaché in Washington, has lodged a complaint with the postoffice department about the failure of prompt delivery to him of three important letters from Russia just before the peace conference at Portsmouth. Investigation shows that a new clerk in the country division, confused by the address in Russia sent the letters to the department of war. They were delayed and then forwarded.

ENGINEER ANDRES IS DEAD.

Portsmouth, O., Sept. 1.—Engineer Andre, of the B. & O. S. W. road, who was struck by a passenger train on the main line at Newburg, Ohio, died at the hospital here this morning.

WOMAN

Confesses to Officers That She Shot and Killed Her Husband.

RUSSIAN PRIDE

Troy, N. Y., Sept. 1.—This morning Mrs. James Munchtor confessed to the county officials that she shot and killed her husband on account of harsh treatment. She was arraigned at Mechanicsville and committed to jail on the charge of murder in the first degree. She says she arose early, went to her husband's room with a shot gun, placed the weapon against his body and fired.

RUSSIAN PRIDE

Has Been Hurt by Peace Agreement. Press Comment in Russian Empire on Portsmouth Conference.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 1.—Judging from the press comment on peace it would appear that while pleased with the prospect of the removal of further bloodshed from the far east, a large portion of the public is unable to reconcile itself to the loss of territory, however insignificant. The national pride seems to be offended by the cession of part of the island of Sakhalin. Many of the utterances show evidences of regret that the army had not been given another chance to try the fortune of war, though no one questions or underrates the humanity of the course followed by President Roosevelt, the plenipotentiaries, and Emperor Nicholas. The tone of many of the utterances concerning peace induces one to believe that a further sacrifice of human lives would not be unacceptable if the national self-respect could be regained thereby. One word of disapproval of the terms from Tokyo suggesting that Japan did not desire to be bound by the terms might result in a flare-up here in defense of war and the national honor.

SERIES OF STRIKES

Inaugurated by the Chicago Printers, Nineteen Publishing Houses are Affected.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—An acute stage has been reached in a new labor war in Chicago. Nineteen of the larger job printing houses of Chicago are without union compositors, the result of a series of strikes inaugurated by Typographical Union No. 16 against members of the Chicago Typothetae, the purpose of the strikes being to compel the typothetae as an organization to accede to demands for the "closed" shop and that eight hours constitute a day's work. Further strikes are expected in case other houses undertake to do work for concerns as the result of the posting of notices of an intention to inaugurate "open shop" and "nine hours" where it is claimed, contrary conditions have been the rule. Among the establishments at which the latest strikes were inaugurated were People Brothers, M. A. Donohue & Company and the Methodist Book Concern.

AERONAUT

Meets Death at Height of Two Thousand Feet

MAN IS BLOWN INTO SHREDS

DYNAMITE EXPLODES IN BALLOON IN SIGHT OF THOUSANDS

John Baldwin's Body Picked Up in Fragments—His Wife and Children Witnessed Aerial Tragedy.

Greenville, O., Sept. 1.—In sight of 25,000 persons Professor John Baldwin, 37, was blown to atoms here by the explosion of six sticks of dynamite while 1,500 feet in the air. His wife and three children were among the spectators who witnessed the tragedy. Baldwin has been giving daily exhibitions at the county fair here. He would ascend several thousand feet in the air and explode dynamite at intervals. Thursday afternoon he mounted 1,500 feet in the air. Every eye among the thousands of spectators below watched him until he became almost a mere speck. Suddenly a great cloud of smoke appeared. It hid the airship from view, the spectators supposed, as the balloon had vanished completely from sight. In another moment the sound of the explosion reached the straining ears of the watchers, but the airship did not again appear.

For a moment the crowd waited expectantly, thinking that a view of the aeronaut would be obtained through a rift in the smoke. Then a roar of horror rose from the multitude. The airship had vanished.

Searchers immediately began looking for fragments of the wrecked airship. A half mile away they found pieces of silk cloth from which the balloon was made and splinters of the basket-like framework on which the aeronaut had been perched. Scattered about a 20-acre field were found fragments of Baldwin's body. The distance at which the remnants of the airship fell was so great that the crowds had not seen the fragments fall.

No one can tell how the accident occurred. The six sticks of dynamite which Baldwin carried with him exploded simultaneously, as only one report was heard. It is supposed that in lighting the fuse connected with the dynamite he fired the gas in the balloon, and that it exploded, causing the dynamite to explode also.

ARMISTICE PROCLAMATION

SIGNED BY PEACE ENVOYS AT PORTSMOUTH THIS NOON

Gens. Linevitch and Oyama are Both Notified to Suspend Hostilities in East.

Russian Army Receives News That Peace Had Been Agreed to With Enthusiasm But Officers Do Not Join in Feel- ing of Joy—Progress Made at Treaty Drafting—News from Portsmouth.

Portsmouth N. H., Sept. 1.—The proclamation of an armistice to go into effect immediately, was drawn up Thursday by the peace envoys without the formality of a special meeting at navy yard. It will be at once cabled to General Linevitch and Field Marshal Oyama.

The armistice proclamation was signed at high noon today. A discussion arose during the consideration by the envoys of the armistice proclamation today. The Russians desired that the truce should go into effect immediately. The Japanese, suspicious of the Russians, insisted it should not become operative until after the formal treaty of peace was signed. The Russians finally yielded. An anomalous situation is presented in that an agreement has been entered into to quit fighting, but it will not go into effect until the actual peace convention is signed. The explanation of the Japanese is said to be that a limited armistice while providing for temporary cessation of hostilities, holds the armies in readiness if necessary for immediate resumption of hostilities in case of an unlooked for breach.

The Czar and Mikado have notified the envoys of their approval of the peace terms. The envoys probably will sign the treaty Tuesday and call on the President at Oyster Bay on Thursday of next week.

RAPID PROGRESS

Now Being Made in Drafting Treaty of Peace Which Will be Signed the Coming Week.

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 1.—Through Baron Komura, the envoy, Japan has agreed to the immediate conclusion of an armistice. Mr. Takahira went to Baron De Rosen's room and explained that he and Baron Komura received instructions to arrange terms of an armistice. Baron Rosen immediately communicated with M. Witte, and it is probable that a meeting will be held during the day for the proclamation of a complete suspension of hostilities preliminary to the arrangement of the details by the two generals upon the battlefield.

Progress has been made in drafting of the treaty of peace. Baron Komura at M. Witte's request, will today probably fix a day for its signature. So readily and well is Mr. De Martens, with Mr. Denison, performing his delicate and important task of drafting the treaty, that he was able to return from the navy yard to report to M. Witte the practical completion of 10 articles of the treaty. It is expected the treaty will in its entirety consist of 15 articles, exclusive of the preamble. Japan's original demands are said to have numbered 13. Only 12, however, were presented to the Russians, as President Roosevelt is credited with persuading the Japanese plenipotentiaries before the convening of the conference to withdraw one of the conditions, which he regarded as unjust. Whether this thirteenth demand dealt with the fortifications at Vladivostok can not be learned. Having waived three of the demands presented—the indemnity, the intercession ships and the limitation of Russia's naval strength in the far east—the Japanese final conditions were nine. Several of these, however, will be divided in the treaty and grouped into two or more articles.

M. Witte is exceedingly anxious to sail for home on Sept. 12. In the meantime he will take leave of President Roosevelt and personally present the terms of the peace to the President. He is therefore leaving for home on Sept. 12. He is therefore leaving for home on Sept. 12.

ALLIANCE

Between England and Japan as Out- lined by the Treaty.

London, Sept. 1.—The new Anglo-Japanese treaty of alliance contains an important modification binding either power to come to the assistance of the other if attacked by one, instead, as in the old treaty, two powers, where it is thought to add enormously to Great Britain's responsibility, but on the whole complete satisfaction is expressed as to the scope of the new treaty, as far as it is at present known. It is pointed out that the new treaty establishes an unqualified defense alliance between Great Britain and Japan and it is believed it is the most complete and unqualified defense alliance ever entered into between two great powers, the preservation of the status quo.

WITTE'S BOAST

Russian Peace Plenipotentiary Bluffed the Japanese Envoys by Holding Out to the End.

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 1.—In an interview here M. Witte, the Russian envoy, is reported as saying: "You see what one gains by standing firm. I had not the right to accept a compromise, and a rupture seemed likely to enlist the sympathies of all on the side of Japan. President Roosevelt appealed to my patriotism, humanity and good sense. Fortunately I succeeded in holding out to the end. The Japanese could not read in my face what was passing in my heart. From the outset I assumed such an indifferent tone that it eventually carried conviction. When the Japanese presented their written conditions I laid them aside without looking at them and spoke of something else. On leaving the room I intentionally forgot the conditions lying on the table. When one of the Japanese plenipotentiaries drew my attention to this, asking me if I did not wish to take away secret documents, which some one might read, I put the papers carelessly in my pocket. It was thus to the last minute of the negotiations."

Tolstoi's Comment.

Moscow, Sept. 1.—Count Tolstoi received information Tuesday that peace at Portsmouth was practically assured, according to an intimate friend of the family. Commenting then upon peace as an accomplished fact, Count Tolstoi, who is living on his country estate near the village of Yasnyaya Poliana, said: "I am indeed very happy to see the end of this fearful butchery, but it is a great pity that this war will not be the last. It can not be the last war because nations will fight each other so long as the social system remains unchanged, so long as opposition and threats are considered dogmas of society."

MASON GAVE WAY TO HOWARD STONE

WHEN NEL MASON PASSED FIVE MEN IN TWO INNINGS OF PLAY.

Newark Batted Steadily and Won the Game in the Last Inning—Al. Schweitzer the Star.

Newark and Lancaster broke even on the four game series played this week when the locals trimmed Frank Locke's men at Idlewild park Thursday afternoon. The score was a close one, five to six, and it was Lancaster's game during the first two innings of play.

Nel Mason was sent to the box to open the victory for Newark, but it almost proved a defeat that he offered to the fans. Nel was wild. In fact he was very wild. He was averaging two and a half men passed to first in every inning and it was almost impossible for him to find the plate.

Nel was relieved after the first innings of agony and Silent Man Stone went into the box. He got along nicely, allowing but one safe hit during the remainder of the game. Such good hitters as Heller, Locke, Winters and Kunkle were unable to solve the mystery of Stone's peculiar delivery and all went down and out. Gyl came in for two singles, and one of these was from Mason's pitching.

Abbott and Iger each got a hit off Mason, but like their team mates were at sea when Stone started the trouble. For Newark, all hit except McDonald, Stone and Mason. Schweitzer got three hits, one a double, while Snow and Bissell hit safely twice. In spite of the fact that Newark was hitting regularly, no one had any hope of overcoming the great odds which were before them. Lancaster money went begging until after the fifth inning, then there was none in sight.

Several of the Lancaster men succeeded in placing a few duets on the game but they lost out on every point. They were betting on the number of hits, shut outs, number of runs, etc. A Coshocman who was a personal admirer of Doc Abbott, dropped a small roll when Abbott failed to come up to his expectations with the willow club. Lancaster scored in the first two frames. Mason passed two men, and allowed a hit and with two errors, two men crossed the rubber plat. In the next frame he passed three. Two hits also came in this inning, so it was no trouble for the visitors to push three more in.

For Newark, McDonald walked. Davis got to first on a fielder's choice when McDonald was caught at second. Danny stole second and scored on Schweitzer's single. In the second Bissell got a scratch hit and stole second, going to third when Wratton was caught at first. He scored when Doyle hit to the infield.

Then came that beating in the fifth. Humphreys lifted one over the fence and trotted peacefully to second. Al. Schweitzer hit one to the corner of the cathedral in right field and it became lost beneath a wood pile. Before Iger or Kunkle could find it the Little German was pushed to third only to be scored on Wratton's single.

Davis scored in the sixth when Raynolds threw wildly to first. He took second on the throw and stole third. Schweitzer's third hit scored him. Schweitzer got to first on Johns' error in the ninth. He went to second on Bissell's hit and to third when Wratton went out at first from Locke. Winters had a passed ball which scored Schweitzer and won the game. The score:

LANCASTER TO GET HUMPHREYS

POPULAR NEWARK OUT-FIELDER WILL GO WITH LOCKE'S BALL TEAM.

"Buck" Moore, a Belleville Southpaw, Will Probably Finish Season Here. Snyder in Out-field.

Just at a time when Newark was rejoicing most over having acquired the services of Harley Humphreys, the ex-Mil. Vernon player, Frank Locke comes along and lays claim to the man and states that he had Humphreys' name to a contract before he came to Newark. The result is that Humphreys will join the Lancaster team Sunday. It is rumored that in case Humphreys goes to Lancaster, of which there is now no doubt, Reynolds will be given his papers and allowed to go his way unmolested.

The Lancaster team is not so strong but that each man drawing a salary should hit the ball regularly. Reynolds has fallen down in this line and it is claimed that he has had but two hits since joining the Lancaster bunch. He is a man who always connects with the ball but he is unable to "hit where they aint" as an enthusiastic Newark fan shouted in a recent game.

It is whispered, and from good authority too, that the above mentioned move on the part of Frank Locke was the work of a petty jealousy which the Lancaster Captain-Manager holds against the local bunch. Bissell, Newark's crack left fielder, was under contract to play with Lancaster, it is said, and he came to Newark instead. This occurred only a few days before Lancaster was badly in need of a good outfielder and when they came to have Bissell report, he was in Newark.

Locke had an opportunity to get even by taking Humphreys away from President Hayes and he didn't fail to seize the opportunity.

"Buck" Moore, a well known southpaw, whose home is at Belleville, has been signed by the Newark management and will be given an opportunity to make good here and probably finish the season. Moore has been pitching baseball in Richland county with his "other" hand for a number of years and his ability is recognized by all who know him. At one time he was in fast company and he comes to Newark highly recommended by Umpire Hardesty, who has known him for years. In case he remains in Newark, he will become a regular pitcher and Snyder will be played in the outfield.

A little thinking in the ninth inning yesterday would have helped the locals some and would have saved Schweitzer the pain and injury which no doubt resulted from his earnest and successful effort to run bases in that inning. Al got a hit and if Snyder had been placed on first to run for the outfielder, Snodgrass could have sacrificed him to second. It would have been no trouble at all for Lefty to score on Bissell's hit to left field. Of course, if the side had been retired without a run, Snyder could have played an inning or two in the field.

Mason will work again today and no doubt his arm will be in better shape than yesterday. However the local fans will feel relieved when the report of the game is received here. Nel pitched but two innings yesterday so his arm will leave him in good shape for today's game. Snyder will be on deck for the Saturday game at Akron which leaves Silent Man Stone, the ever popular player with the Newark fans, to pitch the Sunday morning game. If Moore is here, he no doubt will be used in the Sunday afternoon game.

AMATEUR NOTES. Flick Huffman has been elected as captain of the new M. and M. team, under Manager Edward Fenchel.

MANY FIRES IN TOWN. Did Little Damage and Were Really a Good Thing for Many People.

There were quite a number of small fires yesterday which were actually of a good deal of benefit to many people. In the first place they helped the trade of J. W. Collins & Son, our popular druggists, as they sold the Wadsworth Bros. "Chicos" which were burned. Then they benefited the smokers, for it certainly is a benefit to any man to find a cigar for 5c. that will give him more satisfaction than 10c cigars have before.

We might say truthfully that these cigars were a good thing for many others, as nothing makes a man more good natured than a satisfactory smoke, such as he always gets when he lights a "Chico."

J. W. Collins & Son have secured the local agency for Wadsworth Bros. "Chicos," and wants all smokers to try them and see that at last it is possible to get a real Havana cigar, well made, good size, free smoker, delicious flavor, for 5c. Better try a "Chico" on their recommendation. a18-25-51

POLISHERS' CARD

To the Citizens of Newark, Ohio:

We regret that we may have to inform all of the people in this country of the conditions that exist in our city. Some of us were born and raised here and have a pride in the favorable light in which our largest manufacturing plant has been held.

You are all familiar with the conditions which exist between The Wehrle Stove company and the employees of the polishing department. You have done your best to induce the firm to listen to reason and we have done our best to do the same, but conditions have gradually grown worse in spite of all our efforts to settle our dispute without the loss of all self respect.

We are in no way responsible for the conditions that exist in our city. The Wehrle company has persistent-ly upheld its foreman, who called us a pack of cattle and drove us out of the shop, and they have insulted all citizens of Newark who have tendered their good services in trying to adjust this dispute.

In view of the foregoing facts we may have to appeal to all liberty-loving citizens for their support in this our effort to maintain our manhood.

Mr. A. B. Grout, International President of the Metal Polishers, Buffers and Platers of North America, was in this city Tuesday and Wednesday and called upon Mr. Wehrle and tried to effect a settlement, but without any success, as Mr. Wehrle will not listen to reason.

The polishers will continue the fight till such a time as the Wehrle company realizes the mistake they have made and come to a settlement with their men. Thanking the public for their sympathy and for past favors, we remain,

Very truly yours,

METAL POLISHERS AND BUFFERS

Stranded Circus People.

Grenoble, France, Sept. 1.—The remaining destitute persons belonging to the stranded McCaddon's American circus are in a pitiable condition. The management of the circus has not transmitted funds for their maintenance or repatriation. An influential committee of American residents of Paris is raising a public subscription, and is resolved to sue the circus managers before the courts in the United States for the recovery of the amount expended by the committee.

FUSIONISTS

Seeking a Candidate For Mayor of Greater New York.

New York, Sept. 1.—Representatives of the local political organizations opposed to Tammany Hall, including the Citizens' union, the Republican county organizations, the Municipal Ownership league and the German-American league, met to discuss the subject of fusion in the coming mayoralty campaign. When R. Fulton Cutting announced that the Citizens' union had no other candidate in mind than District Attorney William Travers Jerome, the statement called forth much questioning as to Mr. Jerome's views on the issues of the day, including municipal ownership. The discussion of Mr. Jerome was so strong that the conference was adjourned for a week without reaching any further conclusion than the appointment of a committee to consider possible candidates.

Prodigious Contract.

New York, Sept. 1. — It is learned from reliable sources that the Utah Construction company has been awarded a contract for constructing about 300 miles of Western Pacific railroad. The contract of the Utah Construction company embraces all the heavy grading and tunneling in the Sierra Nevada mountains. The contractors will commence operations as soon as possible.

Why Conger Resigned.

City of Mexico, Sept. 1.—It is reported here that Mr. Conger resigned his position as American ambassador to this country when asked to go to China and take measures to stop the boycott, the ambassador regarding the Chinese as more or less within their rights in retaliating against American treatment of members of their race on landing in the United States.

To Fumigate Colon.

Colon, Sept. 1.—The sanitary authorities of Panama, in order to improve the health conditions in Colon, have sent over a gang of 200 men to fumigate the town. In the opinion of many persons the present unsatisfactory condition will be unalterable while swamps and marshy tracts of land are allowed to remain on all sides of Colon.

Be as courteous and agreeable to your inferiors as you are to your equals and superiors.

APPEARING OLD

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.

You cannot afford to grow old. In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible, one's youthful appearance. It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxuriant growth of hair.

The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burning germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness. Nature's Hermitide is the only known destroyer of the pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use. Hermitide makes an elegant hair dressing, as well as a Dandruff cure. Accept no substitutes—there is none. Send for the latest brochure. Send the coupon for sample to The Hermitide Co., Detroit, Mich.

The attorney was admitted before the reporter, and when the latter went into the apartment Miss Davis refused to talk.

"You will have to see Mr. Smythe," said she.

But didn't you know that Hammond declared to me in the presence of Clara, once Herbert, Harry Wheeler and others, that you shot him?"

"How is he?" she interpolated.

The reporter insisted upon an answer to his original question.

"I am not sure. Do I look guilty?" she responded and added: "I don't know, but I will try to tell you."

Just this morning a letter came for Hammond from a life insurance association in which he has a policy on his life. The amount is not known but the policy is said to be made out in favor of his daughter, a young woman aged 17, who is now attending school in Indiana. Her father, according to Mr. Herbert, sends her money regularly and has always supported her since he came to New York.

Never refuse to say anything and things of others.

WATER WORKS

QUESTIONS

Editor Advocate—As a reader of your paper I am one among the many who approve the submission to the people of the question of the additional cost for a complete water works plant. But there are some matters pertaining to the question that the people would like explained more fully. Will you, therefore, please answer the following questions:

1. Do you propose that the proposition to be submitted to the people shall express a specific amount?
2. Is the new system to cost $500,000, $600,000 or $700,000?
3. When shall the question be submitted to the people?
4. Should any proposition for the purchase of the present water works plant be submitted to the people for approval?

Please answer. A READER.

An ordinance providing for submitting to the people any question for additional cost of the proposed new water works plant must necessarily specify the amount, and the people will know by this means what will be the total cost for the system. We trust this is a sufficient answer to both questions one and two.

As to the third question, the Council is the authority to submit the question to the people, and it is for the Council to say when it shall be done, as well as to specify the amount.

Regarding the fourth question there is no proposition under consideration for purchasing the present water works plant, and it is not in issue. But certainly no such proposition should be considered at any time on any other basis than that of submission to the people. By all means the people should be given the opportunity to decide any proposition of that importance at the ballot box. It is the people's money that is to be expended and the people should have the absolute right to say how it shall be expended.

The curtailment of the people's right to rule on all such important matters is the cause of the existing widespread opposition to the present municipal code. All over Ohio this pronounced dissatisfaction exists against the code for the very reason that too much power has been taken away from the people. Judging by this dissatisfaction it is not difficult to see the extent of the demands that will be made upon the next Legislature for radical changes in the present municipal code or its repeal altogether. The voice of the people must not be curtailed. We trust our "Reader" is satisfactorily answered.

Veterans for Comrade Pattison.

An additional alarm has come to George B. Cox's candidate for governor—Herrick—in the fact that so many gallant Union veterans of the Civil war have revolted against Herrick's candidacy and have declared their intention to vote for Comrade Pattison. These are men, of course, who heretofore voted the Republican ticket. In addition to the opposition to Herrick because of his subservience to Boss Cox, and because he outraged the sentiment of the Christian and temperance people of the state, the old Union veterans have a special reason for voting for Pattison because he is a comrade. A great many do not seem to be aware of the fact that John M. Pattison served through the Civil war in the Union army with courage and distinction. He entered the Union ranks when a mere boy of 16, and served gallantly to its close. His life and character ever since as a business man, as a State senator, and as a member of Congress have been irreproachable. The old veterans of the Union army feel that they are safe in electing to the governorship of Ohio a gallant comrade who touched elbows with them, and shared perils with them, in the Union ranks.

Butchers of the Bank Bill.

While Governor Herrick is making promises to do things better in the future, especially to recommend the enactment of a state bank inspection law, he should explain why he was covertly opposed to the Moore Senate bill in the last legislature, and why all his immediate friends and the state house or "official" lobby did the bill to death in the house, with the governor's knowledge, if not, indeed, with his consent and approval.

The bill provided for the most thorough inspection of the private banks of the state, and passed the senate with but slight opposition.

But in the house it met with desperate and relentless opposition by a lobby which included the Cincinnati boss who conducted the battle from start to victory, by long distance telephone.

That money was freely used is beyond all question. All the private banks of the state that have recently gone into bankruptcy contributed to defeat the bill in the house. The receivers of these bankrupt concerns, could, if they chose, no doubt tell exactly how much of the depositors' money went to defeat a measure intended to protect them.

It is known at least, of some receivers who have the cashed checks which show how much it cost the stockholders of the banks placed in their hands, to keep the bars from being put up. When Senate Bill No. 62, by Mr. Moore, was pending in both the senate and the house, Governor Herrick gave no sign of recognition to it; did nothing to smooth its passage; did nothing to rebuke or disperse the lobby which was killing it in the house.

As already stated the bill passed the senate, but in the house it was defeated by the votes of the Republican representatives named below, who at some or all the stages of its attempted passage voted to kill by voting "No," and killing it. They were:

Brannock, Briggs, Barnett, Carothers, Crist, Criswell, Demuth, Eagleson, Evans, Fisher, Foster, Frizzell, Jones of Lucas, Jones of Jefferson, Kennedy, Little, Meadon, Nihart, Osler, Pumphrey, Rawson, Myers, Reynolds, Riggle, Roll, Rowland, Stockey, Sprague, Stewart, Thomas, Thompson of Lawrence, Wagner, Wayne, Williams of Hamilton, Williams of Mahoning, Willis, Worthington.

ACCUSES HERRICK

Ex-Councilman T. R. Flower Denies He Begged For His Support—Cleveland Has Bolted Herrick.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 1.—Former Councilman T. R. Flower, president of the East End Republican club, who bolted Governor Herrick, was very angry at the governor's statement that he (Flower) had come to him for support for the mayoralty nomination and that Herrick had given him no encouragement.

"Herrick's statement is maliciously untrue," he said. "Here are the facts: About three weeks before the books for the Republican primaries opened Willis Johnson came to me and asked me to call on the governor. The following day I saw Herrick.

"Flower," said he, "you are my choice for Mayor. Now, I want you to be a candidate, and I am going to try to arrange it."

"I told him that he should not arrange anything for me; that under no circumstances would I be a candidate for Mayor in the Republican ticket this fall.

"Later I met Paul Howland on the street. I told him that Herrick had asked me to run for Mayor. 'What,' he exclaimed, 'Herrick made the same proposition to me.'

"Subsequently Bill Crawford said to me: 'Flower, I want you to go on the ticket for Board of Public Service this fall. I will pay your assessment.'

"I gave Crawford the same answer that I gave to Herrick.

"How Herrick had the face to say that I went to him and begged him to support me for Mayor when his agent, Willie Johnson, sat there and heard the whole conversation, passes understanding."

Howland refused to say a word regarding Herrick's request.

GOVERNOR CLINTON

Was in Newark Eighty Years Ago to Witness Beginning of Work on the Ohio Canal.

The following paragraph is taken from the Ohio State Journal dated July 7, 1825:

His excellency, Governor Morrow, on Saturday, 2d of July, proceeded as far as Granville, and from that place dispatched Colonel Bacon, of his staff, to Newark with orders, that, in conjunction with Colonel McElvain and Colonel King, they should make all necessary arrangements for the proper reception of Governor Clinton, on the part of the executive of this state; and that upon receiving satisfactory information of his arrival in the neighborhood of Newark, to proceed to advance, and in behalf of the governor of Ohio, welcome his arrival in this state.

Very early in Monday morning, an express, which had been dispatched on the evening previous, arrived with information of the approach of Governor Clinton. Such of the canal commissioners as were at Newark, accompanied by General Johnson, and his staff, by Colonels McElvain, King, and Bacon and a very considerable number of citizens of Newark, escorted by a detachment of dragoons, proceeded about six miles on the way, where they were met by Governor Clinton and his suite, with General Vanranssalar, Messrs. Lord and Rathbone, accompanied by Mr. Kelley, one of the acting canal commissioners.

UTICA AFFAIRS

Thomas Edman's Horses Frightened and Ran Away—C. U. Stevens Moves to Newark.

Utica, O., Sept. 1.—While Thomas Edman was engaged in unloading a load of hay from his wagon into a car, on Tuesday, a bale of the hay fell from the wagon, striking the team. The horses lunged and ran, and other bales of the hay falling on them added to their terror. They passed north of Mrs. Bricker's house to Main street where they crashed into one of Captain Hall's large maple trees—a horse to each side of it. The breach straps gave way, but no serious damage was done.

Charles F. Stevens and family are removing to their new home on West Church street, in Newark, this week. While Mr. Stevens will retain his Utica store, the departure of his estimable family will be a source of regret to all their acquaintances. No endorsement too high of them can be given to their new neighbors.

Joseph McPeck's horse frightened at an automobile several days ago, while he was driving with his wife and child, and began plunging. The buggy was upset and the occupants were thrown out, and Mrs. McPeck was so badly bruised and shocked as to require the services of a physician. She is now rapidly recovering from her injuries, however.

Mrs. Rosa Wilson of Newark, is spending a few days at the country home southeast of town. Fire was started in the Utica glass works on Thursday. Blowing will begin in about three weeks.

The prompt results produced by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy together with its pleasant taste have won for it a place in many households. Mr. W. T. C. HOPKINS OULD NOTED ORGANIST

COMING FROM ENGLAND TO TAKE POSITION AT TRINITY CHURCH HERE.

Mr. Ould, an Accomplished Musician, Will be a Worthy Successor to Mr. C. E. Reynolds.

Mr. C. Hopkins Ould, a famous English organist and pianist, has been appointed by the rector and vestry of Trinity church to the position recently held by Mr. C. E. Reynolds.

Mr. Ould was trained in music from a boy in Westminster Abbey. For three years he was the assistant organist of the Abbey, playing many of its services and training its chorists. He was educated on the organ by Sir Frederick Bridge, the organist of the Abbey. Mr. Ould finished his musical course in the Royal College of Music.

He has held positions in London and Glasgow, England, conducted large choral societies and orchestras, and is a composer of no mean repute. Mr. Ould will be a great addition to musical circles in Newark, and no doubt be a worthy successor to that accomplished musician, Mr. C. E. Reynolds. Mr. Ould will begin his work in Newark September 10, as he is now on his way across the Atlantic.

WATER WORKS

Engineer L. K. Davis is Hard at Work on Specifications for Proposed New System in Newark.

Engineer L. K. Davis of Pittsburgh, is hard at work on the new specifications for the new water works system. He said today:

"The new plans, which are drawn with a view to construct the plant for $200,000, do not contemplate a reduction in the size of the pipe, as outlined in the original plans, but merely a reduction in the amount to be laid."

HARD FIGHT

To Prevent Cholera from Getting Beyond Control—Notices Are Printed in the Affected Area.

Berlin, Sept. 1.—The spread of cholera from two localities on the river Weichsel five days ago to 34 cases in 12 localities, extending from the Baltic to the river Warthe, 450 miles south, and its appearance in Hamburg, has given an unpleasant thrill to the people of Germany, for it may mean a long and steady fight as in 1892-93 to prevent the disease from getting beyond control. In those years it is estimated that 800,000 persons died in Russia from cholera. The Prussian government is keenly aware of the possibilities of the danger, which so far is not regarded as giving occasion for apprehension. A committee of the cabinet consisting of Dr. Studt, minister of medical affairs, Herr von Bunde, minister of state and minister of public works; Herr Moller, minister of commerce and industry, and Dr. von Bothmann-Holbeck, minister of interior, has the central direction of preventative measures. Numerous bacteriologists have been sent into the infected districts to assist in the surveillance of persons who have contracted cholera. Cautionary notices are published in all the towns and villages within the affected area.

ACCEPTED POSITION WITH STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ON SEPTEMBER 1.

A. O. Weller, Former State University Student and an Insurance Agent Succeeds Mr. Graef.

Mr. W. J. Graef, who for the past three years has been the efficient assistant secretary of the Newark Y. M. C. A., has accepted a position with the state executive committee and begins work with them today.

Mr. Graef has made many warm friends in Newark and by his thorough and earnest work has done more than anyone else to build up a large membership in the association here. The best wishes of his numerous friends go with him into his new field of labor.

BOTH OIL AND GAS ARE FOUND

RICH STRIKE MADE BY LICKING COMPANY IN FIELD NEAR COSHOCTON.

Cliff L. Sturgeon, Smith Brothers, B. F. McDonald and Other Newark Men Are Interested.

The Newark stockholders of the Licking Oil and Gas company are elated over a rich find of both oil and gas, that was made Thursday evening in the Wakatomica field, about one and a half miles east of Wakatomica, on the Newark and Coshocton road. For some time past the drillers have been engaged in drilling this well, and when it came in on Thursday there was a flow of oil that indicated a good well, and it is estimated that the product will be about 25 barrels a day, which will be obtained by pumping. This company has been operating in this territory for some months, and a number of wells have been drilled with success, but the one shot on Thursday is the most promising, a fine quality of the fluid being thrown over the ground as the stone was ejected after the shot. Within a few days the well will be bailed and the pump set to work, until that time it will be impossible to correctly estimate just what the new hole is capable of producing. However, the officers feel that they are in the right territory and will make preparations to sink other wells. This company hold the major portion of the leases in this territory. The Newark parties interested are Cliff L. Sturgeon, Joseph F. Smith, Milton Smith and Attorney B. F. McDonald.

In the case of Ohio ex rel. Myrtle M. Tilton against the Trustees of McKean township, the trustees have filed their answer. They say Miss Tilton, who is blind, first made application for relief in 1902; that a committee called on her and when they informed her that the allowance was made to needy blind persons she refused to accept it; that she made another application to the trustees in 1903 for an allowance in the sum of $50 and made a levy on the taxable property of the township to pay the allowance; that the money was paid into the treasury; and that she was notified that the money had been allowed; that she never made a demand for the money, and it is now in the township treasury awaiting her order; that in 1904 like proceedings were had and another allowance of $50 was made, but the sum was not collected by reason of change in laws. The trustees ask to be dismissed with their costs. J. R. Fitzgibbon, attorney for the defendants.

H. R. NICHOLS IS MADE PRESIDENT

MISS LITZENBURG OF UTICA, IS CHOSEN SECRETARY OF THE INSTITUTE.

Election of Officers at Closing Session of Institute—Two Hundred and Twenty-Eight Registered.

Friday afternoon the following officers were elected by the County Teachers' Institute:

President—R. H. Nichols, Hanover. Secretary—Miss Kate M. Litzenburg of Utica.

Executive Committee—John J. Jones of Pataskala.

The first two elections were made by acclamation. For committeeman Mr. Jones defeated W. H. Orr of Jackson-town by a vote of 143 to 59.

The total registration was 228.

FRIDAY MORNING.

Friday morning's session of the Institute opened with the usual devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Mr. Berger. A special feature of the opening program was a vocal solo by Miss Una Marshall, of Newark. The universal appreciation of this number was emphasized by an enthusiastic encore. Roll call showed a registration of two hundred and seventeen names.

Mr. Denney began the morning's work with the subject "Ruskin's Message," appropriately following the preceding lecture on "Carlyle's Message." Briefly reiterating the fundamental principles of Carlyle's beliefs, Mr. Denney led naturally to consideration of the ideals of Carlyle's pupil, Ruskin.

Ruskin, unlike most of his literary contemporaries, was born in luxury; but he was born at an interesting time, when conditions largely determined life work. His time at Oxford was principally given to art and literature. When Ruskin began to write his principal contemporary in literature was Scott, whose keynote was Romanticism.

In Ruskin's day, England was devoted to machinery worship. Hand work was, for the moment, considered a thing of the past. Even the magnificent cathedrals were considered unimportant, until Ruskin made it his business to change the course of public sentiment.

Ruskin put himself on the off-side of all popular questions. He was seemingly the only one who dared question the supremacy of modern institutions. At his own expense he took initiatory steps to correct many abuses which were not then recognized as abuses at all. The wild enthusiasm for benefits of mining and manufacturing institutions were severely censured; and the English people thought him crazy.

The labor demand of today is "Eight hours for sleep, eight hours for work, eight hours for what you will." Ruskin's concern was for this eight hours of license; he was the first man in prose to turn the attention of thinking minds to the condition of the lowly. He wanted to startle the people into thinking.

His first books were on pictures and architecture. He wanted to give the English people some conception of what true beauty is. He did prove to them that the Gothic architecture is as beautiful as the classic models. He made studies in color, and popularized them; he even taught them how to paint their houses. He was the patron saint of the pre-Raphaelite school. He taught England that the ocean, the mountain, the forest, were things to be admired, not feared.

When he taught about the beautiful things of daily life, he said that no nation can have a great art, unless it love nature—unless it is a moral nation. From John Ruskin has sprung the concern we feel nowadays for the morality of the working classes. William Morris so well known among the arts and crafts societies, was merely a pupil of Ruskin. The man anxious to bring about a revolution toward art and beauty undergoes stages of development: (1) The recognition of the aesthetic sense; (2) he is forced from mere study of beauty to a study of sociology.

If you can read nothing else that Ruskin has written, get his one book, "Unto This Last." For things written therein, he has been called a socialist, but what's in a name? Better he called idealistic than "socialist," or "moonshine."

Mr. Deane on Friday morning resumed the discussion of "Geography," which was left unfinished on Thursday. In opening he indicated that his purpose would be to "ramble over" the earth, in rather desultory fashion, in hope that certain geographical principles might thus be established.

The relation of conditions dependent upon phenomena of physical geography to geography proper are of utmost importance in determining such environmental factors as climate, moisture, etc. Sea and mountains are great modifiers of temperature. Slope is another. Many vast tracts of country slope south, toward the sun; e. g., our own great Mississippi valley, whose climate would be different were the course of the river changed. Other minor considerations are soil, presence of forests.

From climate we pass to weather, which is not the same. Climate is the sum of all the weather of the year. By knowledge of the weather map, we can easily determine what barometrical conditions promise rain. The general fact of weather conditions are the same everywhere unless changed by local conditions. Anyone with reasonable intelligence can, under ordinary circumstances, predict the weather two days ahead. Weather forecasts will usually prove correct. A study of weather, by means of maps sent from the nearest weather bureau, can be made a factor of interest to the school. No study could prove more helpful to an agricultural community.

Climatic conditions influence products and population. Study the why and wherefore of production intelligently with your pupils. Devote more time to your own state.

Another interesting fact in the cause and effect of geography is the study of cities. Why do we find Buffalo and New York and our other great cities where they are? Natural advantages must make them what they are. New York, with its wonderful advantages, may sometime be the greatest city on the globe. Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, New Orleans, are what they are because they are where they are.

Geography, considered thus, will cease to be uninteresting, but will become a living, vital subject.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

At the opening of the Thursday afternoon session, a few minutes were given to Mr. F. G. Steele, who spoke briefly of the drawing work in the Newark schools, and Mr. E. T. Osborne of Summit Station, in behalf of the O. T. R. C., to which he has recently been elected county secretary. The time was then given to Mr. Deane on "Establishing Principles."

The great work of the school, he began by saying, is to make character. The teacher's work is to make something of the individual. Certain principles and ideas must be brought out, and established as a part of self. Thus character is formed.

The steps in one's establishment in any line are sometimes like this. When certain circumstances come for consideration, we will to follow a chosen course of action; will in time become habitual action, which in turn grows to be settled principles. So we are saved from thinking out every problem that confronts us, and relieved of great responsibilities, and come to rely much on experience.

In higher teaching, then, we aim to establish the individual in formation of character. The first law of development is self-defense. If you watch small children, we will find that almost without exception, they will defend themselves by falsehood; principles of both must be inculcated by careful training. Teach them that only the absolute truth will bring real contentment and peace.

Honesty is another fundamental lesson in development. An old adage, and a true one, is that "honesty is the best policy"; but we ought to put the matter on a higher plane than this. John Wanamaker's business success is an illustration of the results of honesty in the mercantile world. Ingrain in every boy and girl these lessons of truth and honesty until they become second nature. Continue your training until they are honest and truthful by nature.

The principle of industry should be applied until work to be done is entered upon without hesitation. Too many people are waiting for something to do, not willing to do the work at hand. A good motto for young people is "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." Too many people are wanting to do head work instead of hand work, when they have no heads to do with. In the last analysis, all true work must prove to be hand work.

Go ahead and make your own opportunities. The way to find the work that you want to do, is to find the work that you find to do. The way you do your own particular work will serve as credentials when you find what you want to do. The epitomized expression of active life is "Do it."

Early in life begin to inculcate lessons of temperance. By this we mean a temperate use of all the conveniences of life.

Another idea to be incorporated early in life is the principle of attending strictly to one's own business. There are not enough of the people who are ready to say a good word for everybody. Like everybody else, and they will have a certain liking for you. An excellent rule is to say the bad things about people before their faces, and the good things behind their backs.

It is because there are so many who do heed these principles that the world is as safe and pleasant to live in as it is. We are free individuals only so far as we rise above the laws of our community. When we have lifted ourselves beyond the petty affairs of our neighbors, our lives are free to be given to higher ideals.

After intermission, the Institute listened to Mr. Denney on "The Interpretation of Poetry." One of the most pleasing things about fine literature, he said, is its rhythm. Human nature has a wonderful love for symmetry. This feeling will often cause unintentional misrepresentation, in order to satisfy the demands of the mind's ideal. This desire for regularity is a thing to be recognized in human nature, and in letters. Moreover, when we have planned our schemes we begin to take liberties with them; but not to the extent of destroying the symmetry.

Rhythm is present in prose as well as in poetry; but it is a rule that in the former it must not be apparent. We find pleasure in the rhythm of prose, but more in that of poetry. It is said that Tennyson has written the best blank verse since Shakespeare; let it be added that he has introduced more variety and irregularity into his poems than any other writer.

Form has some relation to thought, or the sentiment to be conveyed. To discover that relationship, perhaps, the easiest way would be to make an analysis of different forms of poetry. There is the ballad form, which has "go" in it; it has been used from time immemorial to express the sentiments, the folk-lore, the superstitions of our race. This is a suitable meter in which to offer children's reading; it furnishes elements that they will grasp, and not easily let go. The old ballad terms are idiomatic. Once learned, they are seldom forgotten, and there is a practical value in adding to the child's resources.

Many things have been written in ballad form, simply to give them the old-fashioned tone. For example Longfellow's "Wreck of the Hesperus," or Lowell's "The Singing Leaves." Read ballads to your children, and tell about their history.

There are other forms that have persisted as long, and with as much fitness, as the ballad. This has been used for illustration only. As to the meaning of poetry, here many confess themselves baffled. For this there may be three reasons:

1. Latin and Greek are less studied than formerly, and writing based on the classics, or with allusions to Greek and Roman history and mythology, are not understood. One of the best remedies for a deficiency in knowledge of these languages is a study of ancient mythology.

Another reason lies in the changes of phraseology due to measured length of the lines, causing necessary changes and inversions. The third is the lack of imaginative faculty, but this last can be cultivated.

In order to meet the needs of the school room, some planning must precede study of poetry. Every poem has two elements. The first, the intellectual, can be grasped by even the most matter-of-fact boy in the class. It may be led up to by the question, "What does it mean?"

The second, the imaginative, or emotional element, cannot easily be appreciated. It can be more readily grasped by the adult by the child, because written from the grown person's point of view. Such a poem as Whit-tier's "Barfoot Boy" has no particular poetic appeal to the growing boy. It is no easy matter to convey to a young child the beauty and value of poetry. To do so requires careful consideration and planning. Sometimes a bit of fact, a presentation in other words, will enlighten the situation.

One of the chief values in poetry as a reading lesson is that it acts as a relief to the pupil from the other work of the school. The bit of fine art, as studied in music and poetry, is admirably supplemented by the teaching of poetry in the guise of reading. Our opportunities being so limited, we should grasp them whenever possible. Analysis of a poem will often aid in grasping its meaning, and will make it give up its aesthetic value as well. The teacher who has a good voice does her class an injustice if she does not read to them often the best things. In literature you must be generous. One sure indication of a teacher's interest in her class is the fact that when she reads something good, he marks it to share with her pupils. They carry home the thoughts presented, and thus teacher and pupils become real missionaries of intellectual life.

The Round Table was conducted by Mr. Denney, the questions presented dealing with widely differing phases of school life, from curriculum to morals. It is needless to say that, with Mr. Denney's happy faculty of adapting himself to the demands upon him, the questions were ably answered.

Soldiers Reunion.

The twenty-seventh annual reunion of the Seventy-sixth Ohio will be held in Memorial Hall, Newark, O., Wednesday, October 4, 1905, opening on the evening of the 3d with a roasting campfire. A good program has been arranged and a good time is expected. A special effort has been made to have a full attendance of the membership of the association present. A cordial invitation is extended to the public, especially to all soldiers and friends. The exercises will close with a grand march around the square in which all soldiers are requested to take part with their wives or lady friends as partners. In honor of the old Seventy-sixth, please swing your flags to the breeze that day. And should your chickens be roosting high. And of old soldier are real shy. They cannot escape the old Seventy-six.

WEATHER FORECAST TEST.

Army of Experts Will Enter Lists For a Prize of $100.

From Smith of Roaring Run, Va., to Broun of the upper Saguenay, Thompson, the trapper of Winnipeg; Devos of Hockensack, N. J., and Rodriguez, the hermit of Berkeley, Cal., the weather wise Six Hundred are at last to come into their own, says the New York Herald. For a prize of $100 they will match their systems or whatever it may be that they depend upon for their predictions. F. H. Fast, a lawyer in New York, has put up the money, and the national government will indirectly determine the winner.

They may scorn anything more scientific than a rooster's crow, their pet corn may be the source of their confidence, the deep burrowing of the humble anglerworm may be their dependence or as their thematism may be more or less acute they may predict storm or calm. It is all the same to Mr. Fast and to the gaining of the prize.

To all the sharps he could hear of, and they number at least 600, he has written setting forth the terms of the contest and inviting them to compete. Many have already entered the lists, and as there is no expense involved except a trifle of postage all are expected to participate.

From Oct. 15 to Nov. 15 will be the period of the test. The sharps must send their forecasts daily to Mr. Fast for the succeeding twenty-four hours or for several days in advance if they have confidence to warrant it. The predictions will be carefully tabulated and at the end of the month will be compared by the government weather bureau.

"I am something of an amateur farmer," said Mr. Fast recently, "and have become greatly interested in meteorology. An old farmer can tell you correctly whether there will be sun or rain the next day. I want to find out now what the system of the outside sharps is if they have any."

"With most of them, I admit, it seems to be only instinct. A grizzled farmer will roll his quid to the other side of his mouth, peer at the clouds and sniff the air. Maybe he'll rub his bad knee or rheumatic elbow. Then he'll hew and haw a bit and 'reckon we'll have a storm pretty soon.' But a good many of the sharps have regular systems, and the contest will be profitable as well as interesting."

GRAND DUKE "CUT" WITTE.

Czar's Brother Affronted Russian Statesman and Apologized.

There was a crisis at St. Petersburg about two years ago in consequence of a quarrel between the Grand Duke Michael, brother of the czar and then heir presumptive to the Russian throne, and M. Witte, the czar's minister of finance, recalls the Boston Transcript.

At a state ball the grand duke ignored the minister's bow and gave him the cut direct. M. Witte's face showed no trace of annoyance. He passed on through the crowded ballroom as if he had not noticed the public affront.

High officials who had sought his favor the day before fell away from him. They avoided conversation with the man whom they thought to be disgraced in the eyes of his imperial master and gathered instead around the grand duke. M. Witte's isolation was as complete as that of Richelieu on "the day of fools," when not a single courtier attended his levee, because all thought the king had quarreled with him finally.

Like Richelieu, M. Witte was the victor. The next day he sought an audience with the czar and placed the facts of the case before him.

Because, in his capacity of finance minister, he had felt it his duty to refuse the grand duke certain large sums of money for military purposes, the latter had publicly insulted him. Unless the grand duke apologized to him privately and made atonement as publicly as the insult he would be declared, he obliged to leave the czar's service.

The czar appealed to him to reconsider this decision, and pointed out how difficult it would be, in view of the dignity which begets the Russian imperial family, to make the grand duke apologize.

"I appreciate that, sire," M. Witte answered, in effect, "and I make no demand for an apology. You will, then, allow me to retire from my office. My usefulness to you and to the empire is necessarily ended by this incident. No influence or authority can be left to me."

At the next court function the grand duke made a point of greeting the finance minister warmly before the latter had time to bow to him.

Many Presents For Miss Roosevelt. Not only has a shower of commendations fallen upon Miss Alice Roosevelt throughout her visit to the south islands, but substantial presents have come to her as well. The sultan of Sulu, through his prime minister, presented to her a pink pearl of so remarkable a tint that many collectors of gems doubtless would give a great deal to possess it. The chief duties also expressed their interest in the president's daughter by gifts of pearls and a decorated sash. As if the American party had not been entertained sufficiently, a programme of native sports, including a spear dance and a bullfight, was arranged for them. The sultan, dressed in attire that was far from the American standard of summer outdoor comfort and attended by his minister and several eunuchs, rode into the arena and greeted Secretary Taft. At the entertainment Miss Roosevelt and the other Americans were taken for a drive through the coconut groves.

KNABENSHUE IN FLIGHT

Daring Aeronaut Not Afraid While In the Air.

Young Toledo Aeronaut Says He Feels as Safe in the Air as on the Ground—Has to Know Just Where to Shift His Weight to Balance His Airship, Which Goes in Any Direction Excepting in a Gale.

STRONG MAN OF STEEL NERVES.

"When I am up in the air sailing in my ship I feel just as confident and safe as when I am walking on the earth," said A. Roy Knabenshue, the young Toledo aeronaut, the other morning as he carefully threaded his fingers around the huge silk bag that had safely carried him around New York city in a flight on the previous afternoon. "My ship can go into the air in any direction unless there is a gale blowing."

That statement was proved when the daring young aeronaut sent his airship from the vacant lot at Sixty-second street and Central Park West to the Flatiron building and back, to the great astonishment of thousands of persons who lined the streets and gazed into the air for more than an hour, says the New York Globe. Scores of persons had heard that the ship was to appear shortly after 2 o'clock, and they obtained positions from which to watch the flight to advantage.

Knabenshue's car is so light and flimsy of construction that the first idea is that it could not sustain a man's weight. It does not weigh more than fifty pounds, exclusive of the engine. A structure made of the thinnest of wood is suspended from the gas bag, and upon this the young inventor trusts his life. The skeleton is made of spruce scantlings, held together by little bolts, none of which is more than an eighth of an inch thick.

The frame is fashioned after the shape of a triangle, the extreme length of it being an ellipse, sharply pointed at the ends. Criss crossed from the scantlings at equal distances of about a foot are thin steel wires that hold the frame scantlings in shape and support the engine and the man who operates the machine.

The machine when in flight presents a fascinating and picturesque appearance. The huge gas bag is almost transparent, and when the sun shines on it it has much the appearance of the sail of a first class yacht at sea. Below the bag hangs the frame on which the inventor sits and guides the ship and runs the small engine which operates a propeller at one end.

This propeller is the only visible moving thing on the car. The aeronaut is but a speck in the air, and if it was not known that there was a man on the frame it would take the hardest kind of persuasion to convince any one that there was.

Knabenshue himself is a man of twenty-eight. He is thin and strong and with nerves of steel. He weighs but 140 pounds, stands five feet seven inches, is of dark complexion and has a clear eye. This sparseness of limb and flesh makes him best fitted for the task that he has undertaken, for every pound of flesh that he carries means a corresponding loss of weight that must be taken from the strength of his engines or to the structure to which he clings.

This 140 pounds of Knabenshue is so much ballast for his ship. If a heavy current of air hits his ship unexpectedly fore, aft or on the side he must know where to stand upon the web of scantling and wires. He must skip about, throwing his weight at the right moment to the right place and bringing his ship to the right angle of equilibrium. If his judgment errs death probably will be his fate.

Knabenshue comes from good stock. His father is now the American consul at Belfast, Ireland. Knabenshue, Sr., was at one time editor of a Toledo newspaper, and it was there that the son achieved his greatest victories over the winds. Like a pilot of the seas, Knabenshue knows the currents of the air. This is as essential to a proper sailing of an airship as it is to the man who holds the wheel on the greatest ocean grayhound.

It takes fifteen hours to inflate the airship bag. Hundreds of little bags filled with sand hold the inflated bag in readiness for the adjusting of the framework when the ship is being made ready for flight.

Great Fire in London Predicted. "Within the next few years, I tell you, there will be another great fire, attended by loss of life, in the city of London." This is the prophecy which Edward Atkinson made to one of the representatives of the St. James Gazette. As regards the mechanical appliances employed by the London fire brigade Mr. Atkinson gave it as his opinion that we are far behind the United States. "Your appliances are more recent," he remarked. "I read of your having an engine which can throw a jet of 500 feet in a minute, but that is not enough. I have not seen a single standpipe in any street here. In America the standpipes run to the highest floor of the tallest building and are so constructed that the engine on its arrival can be connected without a minutes delay. No hose is needed, and water is thrown on to every floor. We do not have as you do a few such jets of water thrown from the ground level."

ELECTRIC LINE

Is to Be Built Via Utica Newark to Mt. Vernon

COMPANY IS INCORPORATED

PART OF RIGHT OF WAY HAS ALREADY BEEN SECURED

Dr. C. S. Morse is President, A. J. Wilson Vice President and F. A. Crane Secretary-Treas. of Co.

The following special telegram to the Advocate from Columbus Friday afternoon tells of the incorporation by prominent Newark, Utica and Mt. Vernon men of a company to build a trolley line from Newark to Mt. Vernon, via Utica.

Columbus, O., Sept. 1.—The Newark, Utica, and Mt. Vernon Traction company was incorporated today for $10,000 by the following named men: C. S. Morse, F. A. Crane, Frank L. Beam, Dwight Sapp and A. J. Wilson. It is the purpose of the new company to build and operate an electric road between Newark and Mt. Vernon, running via Utica, and paralleling the B. & O. steam road.

The five men named in the foregoing dispatch, with four others whose names are not yet announced, have been working quietly for several months in getting affairs in shape for the proposed road. An organization has been effected by electing Dr. C. S. Morse the oculist, president, A. J. Wilson, the Utica banker, vice president, and F. A. Crane, manager of the Newark Ice and Cold Storage company secretary-treasurer.

Considerable progress has been made towards getting right of way and partial arrangements have been made to finance the road. The promoters of the enterprise are very hopeful of completing the work of building this line between Newark and Mt. Vernon.

ANTI-TIPPING LAW IS NOW IN EFFECT

LATEST NEW YORK ACT DEALERS WHO BRIBE SERVANTS FOR TRADE.

Aimed at Buying Agents—Corruption of Those Who Buy for Corporations Responsible for Law.

New York, Sept. 1.—Tip the butler or maid and go to jail.

This is the word that has gone out to the butcher the baker and the candlestick-maker from the district attorney's office, for the new anti-tipping statute went into effect today.

This law which was passed at the last legislature, was aimed at the purchasing agents of railways, steamship companies and other corporations, but it applies equally to the butlers and maids who have been handing out the trade of their employers to the grocers and other tradesmen who pay the highest commission. Under the law the payment of the commission is punishable, as is its acceptance.

It has been said that no firm could sell anything to a railroad unless it was prepared to pay a big bonus to the purchasing agent. Dealing with other large corporations has been handicapped in the same way so much that all have been made high enough to cover the cost of the bribe as well as of the work.

Members of New York's smart set who scorn to handle money themselves and entrust their buying to the servants also have been made victims of this system. The butler patronizes the firm which will pay him the highest commission, and the dealer, to get even, adds just that much to the price of his goods. It has even been reported that fashionable modistes and milliners keep maids employed by wealthy women on their pay rolls for the sake of the custom which the maids can send them.

The lordly waiter, however, the autocrat of the fashionable cafe, does not come under the law. He influences no trade by taking a tip, but merely receives a gratuity for a personal service, and he will continue to look as scornfully at a dime and smile as blandly over a dollar as of yore.
